Intended Grade: PreK-2nd

Focus Skill or Concept: Movement, Vocal, and Instrumental Exploration

This fun book by Elizabeth Winthrop takes you on the adventure of preparing to go sledding. It starts with putting on layers of winter gear, climbing the hill, and finishes with a crash at the bottom! It's a fun book to use right after the first snow of the season. The book is written with descriptive sound words and alliterations that lend themselves very well to movement, vocal, and instrument exploration. We start by reading and acting out the story. Then we add vocal sound effects and finally, we translate those sounds into corresponding instruments. The children have fun creating a musical sledding story! Enjoy!
